

Isles Donor Privacy Policy

The privacy of our donors is very important to us. Your decision to support our work deserves our utmost respect. Isles has a donor privacy policy in order to ensure that all current and prospective donors can rest assured that their information will be handled with discretion. Under this policy, Isles promises that all of our donors have these rights:

- To trust that information about their donations is handled with respect and confidentiality according to law.
- To trust that only select authorized employees, trained to properly handle donor information, will have access to that information.
- To trust that Isles will not sell, trade, rent out, or share their personal information for commercial benefit.
- To trust they receive appropriate acknowledgement and recognition.
- To trust that their donations will be used for their intended purpose.
- To have access to Isles' most recent financial statements.
- To remain informed about the make-up of Isles' board and to hold them to a standard of using their best judgment regarding stewardship.
- To hold all relationships with Isles' representatives to a high professional standard.
- To trust that any questions asked when making a donation will be answered promptly and honestly.